The Presenter

Vincent Papaleo is a Melbourne-based private, clinical psychologist who specializes in the provision of psychological services in the area of Family Law. In his 28 years of working in Family Law, he has produced many Family Reports, regularly given evidence in Family Law Courts and his reports and opinions have figured significantly in a number of very high profile cases. Vincent's work extensively involves working with families in high conflict, families where children refuse to see one of their parents and in helping to establish child sensitive parenting plans, with a focus on developmental and age stage considerations. He regularly presents at law conferences and makes significant contributions to the training of Independent Children's Lawyers, legal practitioners and psychologists. He is a member of the Australia Psychological Society and of the Board of Clinical Psychologists. Vincent still maintains a small clinical practice dealing with child behavior problems.
